Overview

The use of sexual orientation in all employment practices of Georgia Health Sciences University is prohibited. The institution strictly adheres to this formal policy and practices equal employment opportunity measures for all persons regardless of sexual orientation.

Process/Procedures

Hiring Practices

Georgia Health Sciences University prohibits the use of sexual orientation when advertising for, recruiting, and hiring new employees. No positions exist at Georgia Health Sciences University with any bona fide occupational requirements based on sexual orientation.

Leave of Absence

All institutional policies regarding leave of absence apply equally to all employees regardless of sexual orientation. Employees availing themselves of sick leave incidental to pregnancy, childbirth, or adoption are permitted to work as long as verified medically by competent medical authority and can return to work using the same standard. Employees using sick leave incidental to pregnancy, childbirth or adoption are reinstated at such time as they are medically certified to return to work in their regular position.

Family or medical leave may be taken by an employee, without regard to sexual orientation, for the employee’s child by birth or adoption. Family or medical leave for this purpose must be taken in consecutive weeks and may not be taken intermittently. The entitlement to begin family or medical leave expires at the end of the three-month period from the date of birth or adoption. If the leave period exceeds two weeks, the employee is required to make arrangements with the benefits office for payment of premiums for the duration of the leave. If the employee does not return to work at the expiration of family or medical leave, the employee may be subject to termination, unless the supervisor has given written approval for an extension.

Retirement

Retirement benefits are offered to all employees without regard to sexual orientation. Retirement benefits are set by the Board of Regents and the State of Georgia and are not available to unmarried partners.

Salaries

Salaries are determined without regard to sexual orientation.

Complaints

Any employee who feels he/she has been discriminated against on the basis of sexual orientation should contact the AA/EEO Office.

Responsibilities

The responsibilities each party has in connection with ARSA Policy 3.09, Sexual Orientation Discrimination Policy, are:

Director AA/EEO Officer
AA/EEO Specialist

To ensure that discrimination, based on sexual orientation, does not exist at Georgia Health Sciences University.
