Policy 2.14

Volume 2: Academic Affairs

Chapter 14: Student Concerns Regarding Educational Experiences Policy

Responsible Office: Academic Affairs

Originally issued: unknown

Revised: 4/15/2009

Policy Statement

The components of each course of instruction and of each educational program at Georgia Health Sciences University are carefully selected for content and suitability. Students at Georgia Health Sciences University who anticipate problems in carrying out any part of their curriculum because of moral, religious, or other reasons must consult with the appropriate program or course director prior to enrolling or at the first opportunity following knowledge of such. Each problem will be carefully considered in an attempt to resolve the difficulty in a manner consistent with the educational standards of Georgia Health Sciences University. However, the institution is not obligated to provide alternative educational experiences or to waive required parts of its courses or programs. Students with disability-related concerns should contact the Director of Campus Life Services.

Reason For Policy

Georgia Health Sciences University is committed to presenting an exemplary educational experience for all its students. In meeting this goal, the components of each course of instruction and of each educational program are carefully selected for content and suitability. Georgia Health Sciences University is aware, however, that a student might anticipate a problem in carrying out part of the curriculum based on moral, religious, or other reasons. This policy provides a mechanism for handling such a situation.

Entities Affected By This Policy

All students at Georgia Health Sciences University are affected by this policy.

Who Should Read This Policy

All students and course or program directors at Georgia Health Sciences University should be aware of this policy. Additionally, all faculty involved in course content or curriculum development should be aware of this policy.
