Teleworking/Flexitime Policy

Volume: Finance

Responsible Office: Human Resources Division

Originally Issued: July 7, 2008

Revised: Not Applicable

Policy Statement

Georgia Health Sciences University allows teleworking and flexitime, on a voluntary basis, to employees who fill job classifications/positions that have been designated by the departments as eligible for telework and/or flexitime. The GHSU Telework and Flexitime program is an employer option, not an employee right and is appropriate only when it results in a mutual benefit to both the employee and to the institution.

Reason for Policy

The purpose of this policy is to define the program for teleworking (also known as telecommuting) and alternative work schedules, hereinafter referred to as flexitime, and the guidelines and rules under which it will operate. There are significant economic, personal, and production benefits of telework and flexitime, but there are a number of potential downfalls. This policy is designed to help managers and employees understand this type of work environment and their associated rights and responsibilities. This policy and its accompanying guidelines provide a general framework for teleworkers and employees approved for flexitime at Georgia Health Sciences University. It does not attempt to address the special conditions and needs of all GHSU employees, nor is it intended to interfere with existing faculty schedules driven by teaching, research, service and/or clinical responsibilities, which can vary daily.

Entities Affected By This Policy

All units of Georgia Health Sciences University are covered by this policy.

Who Should Read This Policy

This policy applies to all employees approved for teleworking and flexitime activities at GHSU. All managers, supervisors, and employees should be familiar with the contents of this policy and its supporting guidelines.

Definitions

Alternate Workplace – A work site other than the employee's usual and customary worksite (primary workplace). The alternate workplace may include the employee's home.

Core Operating Hours – GHSU departments may establish operating hours according to the operating needs of the individual departments during which all full-time employees are expected to work a minimum of 40 hours in a workweek. For employees not assigned to shift work necessitated by patient care or other operational needs, the core hours for the institution will generally be 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Core hours are the time period during which all regular professional/administrative and staff employees will normally be expected to be present. During this time, all offices are to be open for business, unless administratively and/or programmatically unfeasible. All offices are to be adequately staffed to transact business during these hours and to provide the necessary and appropriate services.

Eligible Employees – An employee, in an eligible position, who has been identified by the employee's supervisor as satisfactorily meeting performance standards, terms, and conditions of employment of their position. The employee shall have no active formal disciplinary actions on file for the current or immediately preceding review period.

Eligible Positions – A position having measurable quantitative or qualitative results-oriented standards of performance that is structured to be performed during a work period that may vary from the core work hours established for a department or college. For teleworking, the position must be structured to be performed independently of others and with minimal need for support and can be scheduled at least one day a pay period to participate in teleworking without impacting service quality or organizational operations. The eligibility of a position for teleworking or flexitime may change depending on circumstances.

Flexitime – A work period that may vary from the core work hours established for a department or college. Work schedule will include the core hours established above, with the start and end times varying to ensure a 40 hour work week. All schedules will include a minimum of a 30 minute meal break. Options for flexitime include 7:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. with 1 hour for lunch, 7:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. with 30 minutes for lunch, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with 30 minutes for lunch, or 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. with 1 hour for lunch. Four 10 hour days may also be considered by the manager when feasible for the department and position.

Flexitime Agreement – The flexitime agreement documents the mandatory policies in effect and the results of any other agreements between the supervisor and the flexitime worker. The agreement must be signed by both parties prior to the start of flexitime, agreeing that both parties will abide by the terms and conditions of flexitime. The agreement must be reviewed and renewed at least annually to ensure that the guidelines for participating in the program indicate continued eligibility and are well understood. A supervisor may elect to revise the agreement when a need arises. In addition, the flexitime agreement should be reviewed and revised if necessary when there is a change in supervisor, job responsibilities, or change in work circumstances or performance. The agreement must have a place where the employee acknowledges that he or she has read and agreed to the terms of the policy and items listed in the agreement. Any employee who is approved for flexitime must sign a Flexitime Agreement.

Mobile Worker – An employee who travels continuously and whose current work location is his/her home or an assigned office. The duties of these positions generally require the employee to meet and work off-site with clients/customers who are dispersed throughout a geographic territory. For the purposes of this policy, mobile workers are not considered teleworkers. (See Attachment E)

Occasional Teleworker – A teleworker, who with the approval of his/her supervisor, works at home on an infrequent basis. Approval is usually task or project specific and normally approved at least the day before the employee teleworks. Occasional teleworkers do not telework on a scheduled basis. For the purpose of this policy, occasional teleworkers are considered teleworkers.

Primary Workplace – The teleworker's usual and customary workplace.

Teleworker – A person who for at least one or more days in a particular pay period works at home, or a satellite office, to produce an agreed upon work product. All teleworkers should complete the telework agreement and training. A teleworker is not a mobile worker.

Teleworking – Working at a location other than the employee's usual and customary workplace.

Teleworking Agreement – The signed document that outlines the understanding between the agency and the employee regarding the teleworking arrangement. The teleworker agreement documents the mandatory policies in effect and the results of any other agreements between the supervisor and the teleworker. The agreement must be signed by both parties prior to the start of telework period agreeing that both parties will abide by the terms and conditions of teleworking. The agreement must be reviewed and renewed at least annually to ensure that the guidelines for participating in the program indicate continued eligibility and are well understood. A supervisor may elect to revise the agreement when a need arises. In addition, the teleworking agreement should be reviewed and revised if necessary when there is a change in supervisor, job responsibilities, or change in work circumstances or performance. The agreement must have a place where the employee acknowledges that he or she has read and agrees to the terms of the policy and items listed in the agreement. Any employee who teleworks must sign a Telework Agreement.

Overview

Telework and/or flexitime may not be suitable for all employees and/or positions. Departments may implement teleworking and/or flexitime as a work option for certain eligible employees based on specific criteria and procedures consistently applied throughout the department. Members of the President's Cabinet will be responsible for designating the positions under their supervision which will be authorized to approve telework or flexitime arrangements. Directors, Department Chair, or other management personnel authorized to approve telework or flexitime shall hereinafter be referred to as the GHSU Telework or Flexitime Manager for the purposes of this policy.

Provisions Specific to Teleworking

GHSU Telework or Flexitime Managers who choose to consider telework for employees shall be responsible for the following:

1. Establishing expectations for and monitoring of employee performance;
2. Identifying eligible positions suitable for telework;
3. Identifying eligible employees (see section 7 "Employee Participation");
4. Determining if office-like space is required;
5. Determining if GHSU equipment will be provided to the employee to use at home (see section 11 "Equipment and Supplies");
6. Establishing how the teleworker will maintain regular contact with office co-workers and supervisors;
7. Determining how the department will handle restricted access materials, security issues, and taking electronic or paper records from the primary work place (see section 12 "Security and Access to Information");
8. Ensuring that practices are consistent and compliant with state, Board of Regents, and GHSU policy and state and federal law in the use of technology;
9. Delivering telework training to employees;

10. Ensuring that individual work schedules and reporting for non-exempt employees are in compliance with FLSA regulations and Board of Regents policy;

11. Ensuring that each employee's request to telework is considered in relation to the department's operating and customer needs;

12. Requiring a Teleworking Agreement. (See Attachment A.)

13. Ensuring that employees approved for telework record their telework days as "TW" for "Teleworking" on the appropriate institutional leave records.

Conditions of Employment – The teleworker's conditions of employment with GHSU remain the same as for non-teleworking GHSU employees. Employee salary, benefits, and employer-sponsored insurance coverage will not change as a result of teleworking. The employee shall adhere to all policies, rules, and regulations of GHSU, the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia, and state while teleworking. Further, an employee must have the willingness of his/her supervisor to perform the necessary supervisory responsibilities required for teleworking. The employee agrees not to conduct personal business while in official duty status at the alternate workplace.

Teleworking Self-Assessment – A successful teleworker has particular traits, a job suitable for telework and a telework site that is conducive to the work assigned. A self-assessment helps an employee interested in teleworking decide whether telework is right for him or her. GHSU may elect to provide the employee a self-assessment as part of the application to telework. A sample self-assessment is provided in Attachment C.

Work Site and Work Hours – A defined workspace and defined core work hours are necessary (1) to reduce GHSU's exposure to risk, (2) to facilitate proper management of teleworkers, and (3) to ensure work is conducted in a productive environment.

- Work Space: As a condition of permission to telework, the employee must verify that home facilities used for telework purposes are safe and suitable for purposes of the employee's work. The department may deny an employee the opportunity to telework if the alternate worksite is not conducive to productive work. The department should provide the employee a self-certification checklist, as part of the application to telework. The checklist is necessary to reduce GHSU's exposure to risk and liability and helps the employee know if his or her alternate workplace is conducive to productive work. A sample checklist is provided in Attachment D.

An employee approved to telework shall be responsible for setting up an appropriate work environment within his/her home. Georgia Health Sciences University will not be responsible for any cost associated with the setup of a home office. Upon request, GHSU will consult with an employee on any modifications or requirements to operate GHSU-owned equipment at the home office. An employee will be required to provide GHSU with a statement within 10 working days of the request to telework confirming that he/she has met the reasonable standards to include health and safety requirements (including an ergonomically sound workstation) and promise to maintain it in the condition for the duration of the telecommuting period.

- Equipment and Supplies: Office supplies (e.g. pens and paper) shall be provided by the department and should be obtained during the teleworker's in-office work period.

The employee is expected to use his or her own furniture, telephone lines, and other equipment. Any use of private facilities of the employee will be at the employee's discretion and not at the behest or expense of GHSU. This applies to all physical improvements and conveniences as well as services.

In no situation should GHSU owned equipment be installed in an employee's home. GHSU, however, may give written permission for certain equipment, for example computers and pagers, to be checked out and used at the alternate worksite. As GHSU equipment is the property of the state, GHSU must retain the responsibility for the inventory and maintenance of state-owned property following state laws and procedures.

- Work Hours: Each employee who teleworks shall develop a work schedule with the employee's supervisor, and the employee's supervisor must agree in advance to any changes to the employee's work schedule (a sample work schedule is provided in Attachment D). Exempt employees will record telework days on the Monthly Record of Leave as "TW" for "Teleworking" to designate the time as work performed off campus under this policy. Non-exempt employees will report telework days to their departmental time and attendance administrator to ensure that such time is accurately reported as hours worked. Non-exempt employees subject to mandatory overtime must obtain approval from their supervisor before performing overtime. A non-exempt employee working overtime without such approval may cause the department to terminate the teleworking option and/or take other appropriate action. The employee must obtain approval in advance from his or her supervisor before taking leave during a designated telework day.

The employee must maintain contact with the office as specified in the work schedule, department policy, and telework agreement. An employee's activities outside the time of work or outside the place designated for work will be deemed to be in the employee's own personal time and place, unconnected with work activities.

- Expenses and Compensable Time: Work related long distance phone calls should be planned for in-office days. At the discretion of the supervisor, expenses for business related long distance calls and cell phone calls, which must be made from a teleworker's home, may be reimbursed if the reasons and costs for the calls are documented. The teleworker is responsible for the cost of maintenance, repair, and operation of personal equipment.
- Liability: The employee's home workspace when used for telework is an extension of the department workspace. GHSU's liability for job-related accidents will continue to exist during the approved work schedule and in the employee's designated work location. The teleworker is covered under the State's Workers' Compensation Law for injuries occurring in the course of the actual performance of official duties at the alternate workplace.

If an injury occurs during teleworking work hours, then the employee shall immediately report the injury to the supervisor. The employee, supervisor, and agency should follow the GHSU policies regarding the reporting of injuries for employees injured while at work.

The State of Georgia and GHSU are not responsible for any injuries to family members, visitors, and others in the employee's home. The teleworker may not have business guests at the alternate workplace.

To the extent permitted by law, the employee will not attempt to hold GHSU or the state responsible or liable for any loss or liability in any way connected to the employee's non-work related use of his or her own home.

The teleworker is responsible for contacting the teleworker's insurance agent and a tax consultant and consulting local ordinances for information regarding home workplaces.

Telework Coordination – There will be an GHSU Telework Coordinator who will serve as a liaison to departments and the Statewide Telework Coordinator. The GHSU Telework Coordinator will provide guidance and clarification to departments on telework, act as a liaison between including compliance with policies, procedures, and guidelines and will report the results of telework in the agency to the Statewide Teleworker Coordinator.

Security and Access to Information – The teleworker is responsible for maintaining confidentiality and security at the alternate workplace, as the teleworker would at the primary work place. The employee must protect the security and integrity of data, information, paper files, and access to agency computer systems. All GHSU policies on Information Technology and Internet and technology use apply to teleworking, as they would in the primary work place.

Child and Dependent Care – Teleworking is not a substitute for childcare or dependent care. The teleworker shall continue to make arrangements for child or dependent care to the same extent as if the teleworker was working at the primary workplace.

Program Reporting and Evaluation – The employee agrees to participate in studies, inquiries, reports or analyses relating to teleworking at GHSU's direction.

Provisions Specific to Flexitime

GHSU Telework or Flexitime Managers who choose to consider flexitime for employees shall be responsible for the following:

1. Establishing expectations for and monitoring employee performance;
2. Identifying eligible positions suitable for flexitime;
3. Identifying eligible employees (see section 7"Employee Participation");
4. Ensuring that each employee's request for flexitime is considered in relation to the department's operating and customer needs
5. Requiring a Flexitime Agreement. (See Attachment B.)

Employee Participation in Program

Offering the opportunity to work at home or according to a flexitime schedule is a management option and is not an employee right. An employee's participation in GHSU's telework and/or flexitime program is entirely voluntary. The employee, supervisor, or manager may terminate teleworking or flexitime without cause. Teleworking and flexitime are work arrangements between an individual employee and his/her supervisor. A supervisor has no authority to require an employee to telework or work flexitime unless it was a condition of employment or a requirement of the job description.

Process/Procedures

The teleworker agreement should be discussed and renewed at least annually, whenever there is a major job change (such as a promotion), or whenever the teleworker or supervisor changes positions. Because teleworking was selected as a feasible work option based on a combination of job characteristics, employee characteristics, and supervisor characteristics, a change in any one of these elements may require a review of the teleworking arrangement.

Responsibilities

The responsibilities each party has in connection with the Teleworking/Flexitime Policy are:

Vice President for Finance	Oversee the financial operations of the institution and all policies associated with such operations.
President's Cabinet	Designate the management positions under their supervision that will be authorized to work with Human Resources to identify positions eligible for the program and to review, approve, and or deny employee requests to participate.
Associate Vice President and staff of Human Resources	In coordination with departmental managers, identify positions and employees eligible for participation; maintain records on positions deemed eligible and employees deemed eligible.

GHSU Telework & Flextime Managers	Ensure employees approved for program adhere to the policy, including completion of all related agreements. Monitor employee's performance to ensure participation is not adversely impacting performance or accomplishment of tasks.
All Georgia Health Sciences University faculty, employees, and students	Responsible for adhering to the Administrative Policies of Georgia Health Sciences University.
